DECISION

ROSS, Wilford H., Administrative Judge:

Applicant submitted his Electronic Questionnaire for Investigations Processing (e-QIP), on June 10, 2014. (Item 3.) On July 31, 2015, the Department of Defense issued a Statement of Reasons (SOR) detailing the security concerns under Guideline F (Financial Considerations) concerning Applicant. (Item 1.) The action was taken under Executive Order 10865, Safeguarding Classified Information Within Industry (February 20, 1960), as amended; Department of Defense Directive 5220.6, Defense Industrial Personnel Security Clearance Review Program (January 2, 1992), as amended (Directive); and the adjudicative guidelines (AG) effective within the Department of Defense on September 1, 2006.

Applicant answered the SOR in writing on August 29, 2015, and requested a decision by an administrative judge without a hearing. (Item 2.)¹ Department Counsel submitted the Government's written case (FORM) to Applicant on November 5, 2015.² Applicant acknowledged receipt of the FORM on November 11, 2015. He was given 30 days from receipt of the FORM to submit any additional documentation. Applicant did not submit any additional information within that time. The case was assigned to me on April 1, 2016. Based upon a review of the pleadings and exhibits, eligibility for access to classified information is denied.

¹Applicant attached a copy of the page in the Directive setting forth the mitigating conditions to Guideline F to his Answer. However, he did not explain how any of the conditions applied to the facts of his case.

Findings of Fact

Applicant is 48, and married. He has four children. He has been employed by a defense contractor since 2013, and seeks to obtain a security clearance in connection with his employment.

Paragraph 1 (Guideline F, Financial Considerations)

The Government alleges in this paragraph that Applicant is ineligible for clearance because he is financially overextended and therefore potentially unreliable, untrustworthy, or at risk of having to engage in illegal acts to generate funds. Applicant admitted all the allegations in the SOR. Those admissions are findings of fact.

The SOR lists four delinquent debts (SOR 1.a through 1.d). The total of the debts alleged in the SOR is approximately $57,249. The existence and amount of all the debts are supported by Applicant's statements in Section 26 of his e-QIP (Item 3); and credit reports dated June 24, 2014; and June 25, 2015. (Items 5 and 4.)

1.a. Applicant admitted that he was indebted for a past-due debt to a bank in the amount of $16,575. He stated in his e-QIP that this 2007 debt occurred because his "Salary cut 4000/yr." He further stated, "Before any delinquency I contacted [creditor] to try and lower monthly payments. [Creditor] denied, would not renegotiate a payment plan. This debt was charged off." (Item 3 at Section 26.) No further information was provided. This debt is not resolved.

1.b. Applicant admitted that he was indebted for a past-due credit card debt in the amount of $3,001. He also stated in his e-QIP that this 2007 debt occurred because his "Salary cut 4000/yr." He further stated, "After past due payment [Creditor] wanted full payment for entire balance. Could not afford due to cut in salary." (Item 3 at Section 26.) No further information was provided. This debt is not resolved.

²Department Counsel submitted six items in the FORM. Item 6 is inadmissible and will not be considered or cited as evidence in this case. It is the summary of an unsworn interview of Applicant conducted by an interviewer from the Office of Personnel Management on July 9, 2014. The summary was never adopted by Applicant as his own statement, or otherwise certified by him to be accurate. Under Executive Order 10865 Section 5, and Directive ¶ E3.1.20, this Report of Investigation summary is inadmissible in the absence of an authenticating witness. In addition, any relevant information is cumulative with Applicant's statements in his answer (Item 2), and the information contained in Items 3, 4, and 5.

1.c. Applicant admitted that he was indebted for a past-due debt to a bank in the amount of $12,942 since approximately 2007. No further information was provided. This debt is not resolved.

1.d. Applicant admitted that he was indebted for a past-due credit card debt to a collection agent in the amount of $24,731. He also stated in his e-QIP that this 2007 debt occurred because his "Salary cut 4000/yr." He further stated, "Collection agency has discounted balance owed to approximately $3500-$4000 to be paid as a lump sum only. To which we [were] financially unable to pay." (Item 3 at Section 26.) No further information was provided. This debt is not resolved.

Applicant has been gainfully employed since 1988. (Item 3, Section 13A.) He did not submit any information that shows he had acted in any way to mitigate the financial issues since 2007. In addition, he did not submit a budget, or any other information concerning his income and expenses. Applicant submitted no evidence that he has received any financial counseling. Finally, Applicant knew of the Government's concerns about his delinquent debts since June 2014, when he filled out his e-QIP, and evidently made little or no attempt to resolve the debts since then.

Applicant provided no evidence concerning the quality of his professional performance, the level of responsibility his duties entail, or his track record with respect to handling sensitive information and observation of security procedures. I was unable to evaluate his credibility, demeanor, or character in person since he elected to have his case decided without a hearing.

Policies

Security clearance decisions are not made in a vacuum. When evaluating an applicant's suitability for a security clearance, the administrative judge must consider the adjudicative guidelines (AG). In addition to brief introductory explanations for each guideline, the adjudicative guidelines list potentially disqualifying conditions and mitigating conditions, which are to be used as appropriate in evaluating an applicant's eligibility for access to classified information.

These guidelines are not inflexible rules of law. Instead, recognizing the complexities of human behavior, these guidelines are applied in conjunction with the factors listed in AG ¶ 2 describing the adjudicative process. The administrative judge's over-arching adjudicative goal is a fair, impartial and commonsense decision. According to AG ¶ 2(c), the entire process is a conscientious scrutiny of a number of variables known as the "whole-person concept." The administrative judge must consider all available, reliable information about the person, past and present, favorable and unfavorable, in making a decision. In addition, the administrative judge may also rely on his or her own common sense, as well as knowledge of the law, human nature, and the ways of the world, in making a reasoned decision.

The protection of the national security is the paramount consideration. AG ¶ 2(b) requires that, “Any doubt concerning personnel being considered for access to classified information will be resolved in favor of the national security.” In reaching this decision, I have drawn only those conclusions that are reasonable, logical and based on the evidence contained in the record. Likewise, I have avoided drawing inferences grounded on mere speculation or conjecture.

Under Directive ¶ E3.1.14, the Government must present evidence to establish controverted facts alleged in the SOR. Under Directive ¶ E3.1.15, “The applicant is responsible for presenting witnesses and other evidence to rebut, explain, extenuate, or mitigate facts admitted by the applicant or proven by Department Counsel, and has the ultimate burden of persuasion as to obtaining a favorable clearance decision.”

A person who seeks access to classified information enters into a fiduciary relationship with the Government predicated upon trust and confidence. This relationship transcends normal duty hours and endures throughout off-duty hours. The Government reposes a high degree of trust and confidence in individuals to whom it grants access to classified information. Security clearance decisions include, by necessity, consideration of the possible risk that the applicant may deliberately or inadvertently fail to protect or safeguard classified information. Such decisions entail a certain degree of legally permissible extrapolation as to potential, rather than actual, risk of compromise of classified information.

Finally, as emphasized in Section 7 of Executive Order 10865, “Any determination under this order adverse to an applicant shall be a determination in terms of the national interest and shall in no sense be a determination as to the loyalty of the applicant concerned.” See also EO 12968, Section 3.1(b) (listing multiple prerequisites for access to classified or sensitive information).

Analysis

Paragraph 1 (Guideline F, Financial Considerations)

The security concern relating to the guideline for Financial Considerations is set out in AG ¶ 18:

Failure or inability to live within one's means, satisfy debts, and meet financial obligations may indicate poor self-control, lack of judgment, or unwillingness to abide by rules and regulations, all of which can raise questions about an individual's reliability, trustworthiness and ability to protect classified information. An individual who is financially overextended is at risk of having to engage in illegal acts to generate funds.

This concern is broader than the possibility that an individual might knowingly compromise sensitive information in order to raise money. It encompasses concerns about an individual's self-control, judgment, and other qualities essential to protecting sensitive information. An individual who is financially irresponsible may also be negligent, unconcerned, or irresponsible in handling and safeguarding sensitive information.³

The guideline notes several conditions that could raise security concerns. Under AG ¶ 19(a), an “inability or unwillingness to satisfy debts” is potentially disqualifying. Similarly under AG ¶ 19(c), “a history of not meeting financial obligations” may raise security concerns. Applicant has over $57,000 in past-due debts, which have been due and owing since 2007. The evidence is sufficient to raise these potentially disqualifying conditions.

The guideline also includes examples of conditions that could mitigate security concerns arising from financial difficulties. Under AG ¶ 20(a), the disqualifying conditions may be mitigated where “the behavior happened so long ago, was so infrequent, or occurred under such circumstances that it is unlikely to recur and does not cast doubt on the individual’s current reliability, trustworthiness, or good judgment.” This condition does not apply as Applicant’s financial difficulties have been in existence for several years and continue seemingly undiminished to date.

AG ¶ 20(b) states that the disqualifying conditions may be mitigated where “the conditions that resulted in the financial problem were largely beyond the person’s control (e.g., loss of employment, a business downturn, unexpected medical emergency, or a death, divorce or separation), and the individual acted responsibly under the circumstances.” According to Applicant, the debts that were incurred in 2007 could not be paid because of a loss in salary at that time. However, he did not submit any evidence to show how he tried to responsibly adjust his spending or resolve his debts over the following years.

AG ¶ 20(d) states it can be mitigating where, “the individual has initiated a good-faith effort to repay overdue creditors or otherwise resolve debts.” Applicant did not submit any information showing that he has made any attempt since 2007 to resolve these debts.

In conclusion, looking at Applicant’s entire financial situation at the present time, I cannot find that “there are clear indications that the problem is being resolved or is under control,” as is required by AG ¶ 20(c). Paragraph 1 is found against Applicant.⁴

Whole-Person Concept

Under the whole-person concept, the administrative judge must evaluate an applicant’s eligibility for a security clearance by considering the totality of the applicant’s conduct and all the relevant circumstances. Under AG ¶ 2(c), the ultimate determination of whether to grant eligibility for a security clearance must be an overall commonsense judgment based upon careful consideration of the guidelines and the whole-person concept. The administrative judge must consider the nine adjudicative process factors listed at AG ¶ 2(a):

³ See ISCR Case No. 11-05365 at 3 (App. Bd. May 1, 2012).

⁴ AG ¶¶ 20(e) and 20(f) have no application to this case.

(1) the nature, extent, and seriousness of the conduct; (2) the circumstances surrounding the conduct, to include knowledgeable participation; (3) the frequency and recency of the conduct; (4) the individual's age and maturity at the time of the conduct; (5) the extent to which participation is voluntary; (6) the presence or absence of rehabilitation and other permanent behavioral changes; (7) the motivation for the conduct; (8) the potential for pressure, coercion, exploitation, or duress; and (9) the likelihood of continuation or recurrence.

I considered the potentially disqualifying and mitigating conditions in light of all the relevant facts and circumstances surrounding this case. The discussion under Guideline F, above, applies here as well. Applicant has had financial problems for several years, which he has not yet resolved. If he is able to successfully resolve his debts, Applicant may be eligible for a security clearance in the future. However, at the present time, Applicant's conduct with regard to his finances was not mitigated.

Under AG ¶ 2(a)(3), his conduct is recent and continuing. I cannot find that there have been permanent behavioral changes under AG ¶ 2(a)(6). Accordingly, I also cannot find that there is little to no potential for pressure, coercion, exploitation, or duress (AG ¶ 2(a)(8)); or that there is little likelihood of continuation or recurrence (AG ¶ 2(a)(9)).

Overall, the record evidence leaves me with questions and doubts as to Applicant's eligibility and suitability for a security clearance. For all these reasons, I conclude Applicant has not mitigated the security concerns arising from his financial situation. Accordingly, the evidence supports denying his request for a security clearance.

Formal Findings

Formal findings for or against Applicant on the allegations set forth in the SOR, as required by ¶ E3.1.25 of Enclosure 3 of the Directive, are:

Paragraph 1, Guideline F:

AGAINST APPLICANT

Subparagraphs 1.a through 1.d:

Against Applicant

Conclusion

In light of all of the circumstances presented by the record in this case, it is not clearly consistent with the national interest to grant Applicant eligibility for a security clearance. Eligibility for access to classified information is denied.
